Conclusive evidence of significant overstatement of revenues and profits through the use of multiple undisclosed related parties at GSX Techedu (NYSE: GSX)

Respectfully presented to the:

- U.S. Securities Exchange Commission (SEC)
- SEC Chairman Jay Clayton
- SEC Chief Accountant Sagar Teotia
- SEC Division of Corporation Finance Director William Hinman
- SEC Division of Investment Management Director Dalia Blass
- Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB)
- PCAOB Chairman William Duhnke III
- China Securities Regulatory Commission (CSRC)
- State Administration for Market Regulation (SAMR)

Last month, Citron Research published a report on GSX Techedu that we include for you in this package. What stood out most clearly as a red flag, as in many frauds of the past, is that GSX was reporting growth and margins way out of line with competitors all the while not being acknowledged for these alleged achievements in either the: Chinese Media, government databases, or third-party analytics.

Most notably, GSX claims that the secret to their success is they get 1,000% more revenue productivity out of their teachers than their experienced, scaled, and trustworthy competition. Yet, the only information that would corroborate that is an SEC filing and no third-party data.

While going public under the JOBS act with selective disclosure, the disparity in this chart should warrant multiple regulatory investigations.

Annual revenue per instructor (Rmb ths.)

The initial report called into question the validity of the company's claims. In their response, instead of addressing the core findings, the company attempted to dismiss our data's integrity, simply because we removed snapshots of code used to capture user IDs (they contained personally identifiable information).

What has happened in the past three weeks has been nothing short of remarkable. Since the publication of the initial report, we have received four to five correspondences a day from either former employees, competitors, or most likely investors from mainland China who have provided us evidence of:

- Multiple undisclosed related party transactions
- Fake enrollment figures (i.e., brushing of students)
- Misappropriation of funds by teachers

What became apparent is after the initial report of Citron, which came after another widely read criticism of the company, is that in the highly covered industry of remote education in China, not one respected writer came to their defense. This divide of information leaves "Main Street" US investors at a disadvantage.

What we present today to regulators is a collaboration of work that has been vetted, and we will swear under oath to its validity. Much of the work has been constructed by leading Chinese investment expert Junheng Li of JL Warren Capital LLC. Please contact us with any further questions, and we will gladly provide all names and numbers of investigators in confidence.

The two most compelling pieces of evidence that warrant an immediate investigation are:

• A recorded phone call with an employee at a brushing outfit hired by GSX explaining that 40% of GSX's 2019 registered users were fake. We will provide the original recording to any regulator or interested party. A full English translation of this call can be found below.

• Multiple undisclosed related parties that are controlled by long-time associates of Chairman and CEO Larry Chen. All signs point to these entities merely being alter-egos used by GSX to fabricate its financials, facilitating order-brushing and/or improperly taking costs off GSX's books.

Like many former Chinese stock frauds, this has gone largely ignored by the engagement partner at auditor Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu who, in the past, represented failed and questionable Chinese education firms.

We understand what you are about to see might seem complicated, and we look forward to walking you through our homework.

Brushing

The reason regulators must be vigilant in the oversight of Chinese online education companies with outsized metrics is the abuses of brushing. Brushing can be prevalent in online education because unlike ecommerce you do not deliver a physical product that needs to be shipped and stored.

As reported by TAL Education three weeks ago, they found a wrongdoing from one rogue employee. Through multiple emails and correspondences, we have received and vetted, the process of brushing has become institutionalized at GSX. Here is a conversation that was had by a leading China-focused research firm with one of the main "brushers" for GSX. We have the actual recording and will be providing this to you away from this report.

Call with Employee at Brushing Outfit Hired by GSX (English Translation)

April 30, 2020

Q: Who are your online K12 clients?

A: GSX, TAL and Yuanfudao. GSX brushes on two platforms – GSX and Gaotu. Because brushing is an industry standard practice, we cannot rule out that EDU and other online participants are brushing as well although they did not buy our services. GSX management contacted us and we have a contract. For TAL and YFD, their brushing volumes are low. We work with their employees not the management. GSX has been in close collaboration with us for the past year. Now brushing has been halted because of COVID. New platforms may only care about app download volume or the number of IDs registered on their platforms. GSX has already way passed that. We would register with fake IDs on their platform and conduct activities as if we were real students. For example, we would buy classes, write positive reviews, and join in large classes to boost up their head counts. The service we provide is a total solution and more sophisticated and involved than ecommerce brushing. We would take a higher commission because of the service we provide.

Q: GSX gives a bonus to teachers based on class enrollment. Do they pay teachers on fake students and renewal?

A: There are two kinds of brushing for GSX: 1) for top teachers and 2) for new teachers. New teachers would usually get to keep their bonus from fake students because they typically didn't have large classes and didn't make a lot of money anyway. New teachers' total bonus from fake students would not amount to much and the company simply didn't care. For top teachers, since the traffic is already very high and their bonus incentive is high from fake students, they don't receive bonus from fake accounts. Top teachers are aware of the fake students registered in their classes. This is similar to live-broadcasting platforms - KOLs return the commission from fake transactions to merchandisers who are spending money to market and promote them. This is an unspoken rule of the industry. There are always just a few dozen top rated teachers with GSX and they earn a lot of money but the roster may change. Poor performing teachers would be rotated out.

Q: How do you meet your KPI?

A: GSX would send us detailed brushing plans in advance to let us know which teachers our brushing activities should focus on. The company might want to boost the popularity of and traffic to some top-rated teachers more than others. Brushing, in essence, is an effective online marketing tool which generates higher ROI than traditional online advertisement. If some teachers are noticed for having a large group of students in their classes, real students then believe that those teachers are proven, good teachers and sign up for the classes. High enrollment and good reviews are ways for company to increase conversion rate. That's why the brushing business has existed in the past and always will in the future.

Q: How is your fee?

A: The actual cost of our service is not high at all. For a class costing several thousand (RMB), we would only take about 50 RMB in commission. GSX would give us the money for the class and expense it as part of their marketing spend. We would pay for the class with the money they have given to us minus our commission. Effectively, the money would go back to their account as revenue minus our commission.

Q: How about reviews?

A: Depending on the teachers, we would typically provide 20% to 40% of the positive reviews.

Q: How many student head counts are brushed for one teacher?

A: Last year, we generally did about 40% for them.

Q: What class do you buy? Discounted or full-priced class?

A: We typically purchase IDs for brushing and would sign up for classes at full price. It helps the customer's revenue number look better anyway. Classes with discounted prices are reserved for real students. Real students tend to like bargains.

Q: How much commission do you take?

A: We typically take single digit of GMV. Online K12 is typically lower than average of all industries.

We now present proof of a complex web of undisclosed related party transactions that have allowed the company to enroll fake students and create fake financials. This web shown below we believe to be a blueprint of how to institutionalize a system designed to evade audit and scrutiny from foreign jurisdictions.

Note: Many of the people involved have a history of fraudulent activity in China, not unlike many of the companies that have been the subject of SEC enforcement.

Untangling the Web

Beijing YouLian is a disclosed related party of GSX that is owned by CEO Larry Chen and former GSX executive Xiong Xiao. Beijing YouLian was created for the purpose of developing consumer-side users for GSX. Larry's partner, Xiong Xiao, has a colorful history—to say the least.

Xiong's family, Xiong Zijun and Xiong Xueqin, controls two undisclosed related entities— Beijing JiaMeng and Beijing JiaZhangCun—which Citron believes are being used to fabricate GSX reported financials.

Beijing YouLian and Beijing JiaMeng are located at the same address while Beijing JiaZhangCun is right next door.

How do we know this is the same Xiong family?

In 2012, Xiong Xiao and Xiong Zijun founded Renwu (Tianjin) Education Information Consulting. Renwu (Tianjin) was not only de-registered but also had its business license revoked due to administrative penalties from failing to report its annual filings for 2014, 2015, and 2016. Regulators were also unable to contact the company at its registered address.

Source: gsxt.gov.cn

In 2017, Xiong Zijun and Xiong Xueqin founded Parent YouYou, a de-registered company that was located at the same address as Beijing YouLian and Beijing JiaMeng.

Last year, Larry Chen's longtime partner and former GSX executive, Xiong Xiao, was charged with fraud after breaching an agreement and withdrawing restricted funds.

A quick summary of the lawsuit below:

- In 2005, Tianjin Tongmei and Jiyuan City local government signed an agreement to establish a school. Tianjin Tongmei agreed to fund 5 million RMB
- Due to poor management, the school terminated its operations in 2011 and declared liquidation thereafter
- Xiong Xiao, the representative of Tianjin Tongmei, breached this agreement and withdrew restricted funds

Besides Renwu (Tianjin) and Tianjin Tongmei, we also found three other companies related to Xiong Xiao that had multiple issues with the Chinese government (e.g., failure to submit annual filings, cannot be contacted at registered address, altering documents without authorization, business license revoked, etc.). The defunct operational status of these companies—Beijing AiDa Education Research Center; Huanggang YingMei Culture and Education Investment Management Co., Ltd.; and Tianjin ZhongLan Services Co., Ltd—is evidenced below.

When we visited the website for Beijing JiaZhangCun, not only was it not functional (e.g., most of the links are completely non-responsive), clicking on the courses themselves brought you to a WeChat login page that takes you to a blank page after logging in. In short, Beijing JiaZhangCun doesn't appear to be a real business.

Operating as Alter Ego for GSX

Citron found that GSX's disclosed related entity Beijing YouLian (i.e., JiaZhangJia) has been posting job openings as recently as this month with GSX headquarters and undisclosed related entity Beijing JiaZhangCun listed as the work address.

Why are these companies with officially defunct business operations recruiting for job openings? GSX is moving costs off its books onto these entities and/or these entities are helping GSX to brush orders.

Below are job postings from Beijing YouLian with GSX headquarters listed as the address for the job.

Below are job postings from Beijing YouLian with Beijing JiaZhangCun listed as the address for the position. Given that Beijing JiaZhangCun appears to be a defunct operation, we believe that these jobs are actually to support GSX operations.

For all the recent job postings on Zhipin (post1, post2, post3), the work locations stated are at Beijing JiaZhangCun instead of Beijing YouLian.

As previously noted by Grizzly Research, despite GSX management's claims of disposing its 100% interest in Beijing Baija Yuntu Technology more than two years ago, the company is still operating today right next door to GSX—on the same floor of the same office building—while Beijing Baija Yuntu has been actively hiring for positions for both GSX's Wuhan office and GSX's HQ as recently as this month.

Despite GSX management's claim of having completely disposed of this business, we believe GSX and this entity are still working very closely together to this today.

According to the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology of the People's Republic of China, none of Beijing Baija Yuntu's websites were accessible except www.txiao100.com, which happens to go directly to GSX's homepage.

Another website www.tianxiao100.com looks like one of Beijing Baija Yuntu's websites for Tianxiao, but it is actually registered under Beijing Baijia Hulian (i.e., GSX).

Citron also discovered that Tianxiao sits on the same IP address as GSX.

We also examined the official WeChat accounts of Tianxiao and discovered that both Beijing Baija Yuntu and Beijing Baijia Hulian (i.e., GSX) are listed as the parent company of various Tianxiao accounts. We sent on-the-ground investigators in China to the address listed for Beijing Baijia Yuntu's recent job openings and confirmed that these jobs are indeed for GSX's Wuhan office (see photos below). As you can see in the office directory, there are no offices for Beijing Baija Yuntu.

It appears as if GSX lied to investors and is secretly still working very closely with Beijing Baija Yuntu, an internet marketing business—while GSX has also been accused by numerous Chinese consumers of brushing orders.

Who Was Overseeing This?

There are only four board members at GSX. This is highly unusual for a company with a market cap of almost $10 billion. Moreover, three of the board members including CEO Larry Chen all went to Renmin University of China.

GSX's auditor, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu, was the same auditor that was used in Citronexposed frauds Longtop and China Media Express. The Deloitte partner that has been in charge of GSX's audit is Li Li Shan who has a questionable track record.

There are only three companies including GSX that Li Li Shan has been listed as the engagement partner for. The other two companies are Chinese education companies, RYB Education (NYSE: RYB) and Puxin (NYSE: NEW), which are down 70% to 85% since their IPOs. Both companies have notoriously bad reputations in China.
